

AHF 2027 Research Abstract Submission Terms & Conditions

By submitting an abstract for consideration at the Anterior Hip Foundation (AHF) 2027 Annual Meeting, April 16–17, 2027, you agree to the following terms and conditions.

1. Submission Guidelines

- Abstracts must be submitted electronically through the designated AHF submission form.
- Abstracts must not exceed 350 words.
- Abstracts must be written in clear, understandable English.
- All authors must be identified by their full first and last names, without initials in place of names.
- Abstract titles and text should use standard capitalization, not all capital letters.
- Graphs, tables, photographs, videos, and slides should not be included in the initial abstract submission. Additional materials may be requested or required following acceptance.
- Abstracts may describe research that has previously been presented or published elsewhere. Authors are responsible for ensuring that submission to AHF does not violate any existing publication agreements, copyright restrictions, or other obligations.
- AHF membership is not required to submit an abstract or have an abstract accepted.

2. Review and Acceptance

All abstracts will be reviewed by the AHF Scientific Committee.

The Committee reserves the right to accept or reject submissions and determine the appropriate presentation format, including ePoster or oral presentation.

Acceptance decisions are final.

AHF reserves the right to withdraw acceptance if a Submission is found to contain inaccurate, misleading, plagiarized, or otherwise inappropriate material, or does not comply with these terms.

3. Author Consent and Responsibilities

By submitting an abstract, the submitting author confirms that:

- All listed authors have reviewed and approved the Submission.
- The submitting author is authorized to submit the work on behalf of all co-authors.
- The Submission accurately represents the research and findings.
- All necessary permissions, institutional approvals, and relevant disclosures have been obtained.
- Any patient information has been appropriately de-identified, with necessary consent or authorization obtained where applicable.

The submitting author is responsible for ensuring the accuracy of the abstract, including author names, affiliations, spelling, and scientific content.

AHF is not responsible for errors in submitted materials.

4. Registration and Attendance

At least one listed author of each accepted abstract must register for and attend AHF 2027 to present the research, if a presentation is required.

If the designated presenting author is unable to attend, an alternative co-author may present with prior approval from AHF.

Failure to meet attendance or presentation requirements may result in withdrawal of the abstract from the program.

5. Withdrawal Policy

Authors wishing to withdraw an accepted abstract must notify AHF by email at info@hipahf.com at least 14 days before the start of the Annual Meeting.

AHF will make reasonable efforts to accommodate withdrawal requests received after this deadline but cannot guarantee removal from published or distributed event materials.

6. Publication and Copyright

Accepted abstracts, ePosters, and related materials may be published or shared through AHF event materials, the website, digital platforms, and future educational activities.

By submitting an abstract, the submitting author also agrees to the separate AHF 2027 Copyright License Agreement, which forms part of these submission terms.

Authors retain copyright ownership of their original work, subject to the permissions granted to AHF under that agreement.

Authors are responsible for confirming whether presentation or publication at AHF 2027 may affect subsequent publication in scientific journals.

7. Communications

All correspondence regarding a Submission, including acceptance notifications and presentation instructions, will be sent to the submitting author.

The submitting author is responsible for communicating relevant information to the presenting author and all co-authors.

8. Compliance with Submission Terms

AHF reserves the right to reject, remove, or withdraw any Submission that does not comply with these terms or applicable legal, ethical, or professional standards.

By completing the submission process, the submitting author confirms acceptance of these Terms & Conditions and the associated Copyright License Agreement.
